P R E F A C E.

THE Books of Roads already extant seem, on a cursory view, to preclude any other publication of the same kind as unnecessary and superfluous. Such was once the opinion of the editor : he therefore thinks it the more incumbent on him to acquaint the reader with the motives that induced him to offer another Book of Roads to the Public.

Many respectable Gentlemen in different parts of the country, who have approved and encouraged OWEN'S BOOK OF FAIRS, have frequently expressed their desire to see a book of roads purposely calculated to accompany it, so as to make together one convenient volume for the pocket ; and this they observed would prove of much more general and extensive use to travellers, as well as less expensive, than the Book of Fairs with any other separate Book of Roads. He has therefore, in consequence of their requisition, adopted the hint proposed to him, and, agreeably to their plan, compiled this new Book of Roads, which he has ventured to lay before the Public.

OWEN'S NEW BOOK OF ROADS, and his COMPLETE BOOK OF FAIRS, will, it is presumed, immediately strike the reader as very proper and necessary supplements to each other ; and if, upon the whole, the end proposed in this attempt shall appear in some measure attained—which was to furnish every Gentleman and Dealer with full and satisfactory information in his journey

journey to any part of England, Scotland, or Wales, wheither taken with a view of business or pleasure; such an undertaking, the editor flatters himself, will have a reasonable claim to public favour.

In order to render this work more useful, and to remove any doubts which may occur to the traveller in taking his rout to any particular place, a large and correct MAP is prefixed, in which the principal towns are distinguished, and the great roads accurately described.

The editor returns his grateful thanks to the Public for their favourable reception of the former editions. Their encouragement has incited him to exert his utmost endeavours to render this new and improved one more worthy of their approbation. The errors in the former have been carefully corrected, and some useful articles inserted, not to be found in any other book of the kind. He also takes this opportunity to acknowledge his obligation to those Gentlemen who have been so kind as to contribute their assistance towards the improvement of this edition. He begs leave to solicit the continuance of their favours, as well as those of other Gentlemen who may be inclined to promote the utility of this plan. Such hints and amendments as they may be pleased to communicate, directed to W. Owen, No. 11, Fleet-street, will be thankfully received, and carefully attended to; and they may be assured that no pains or expence will be spared to render OWEN'S NEW BOOK OF ROADS, together with his COMPLETE BOOK OF FAIRS, in every respect worthy the encouragement of the Public.

ALPHABETICAL LIST

OF ALL THE
CITIES, TOWNS, and remarkable VILLAGES

IN ENGLAND and WALES.

N. B. After the name of the place and county, is the initial letter of the market-day, thus: M. T. W. Th. F. S.—The first figures shew the distance from London; the next figures refer to the page in which the road is mentioned, or explain the situation of the place with respect to the nearest principal town, in the manner following:

Aldborough, Yorksb. S. 1205 | 2 m. E. of Boroughbridge.
By which the reader is informed, that Aldborough is in Yorkshire (the market-day Saturday) 205 miles from LONDON; and 2 miles East of Boroughbridge; the road to which place is known by referring to the index, where the reader will find that Boroughbridge is in p. 63.

✶ The stars before a town denote the number of members it sends to parliament.

OWEN'S

OWEN'S NEW BOOK OF ROADS.

The Towns printed in Italicks are Post-Towns. Those printed in CAPITALS are Cities, or principal Towns. R. or L. before a Town, shews that you are to keep to the Right or Left to go to that Town. The first Row of Figures in each Column denotes the Distance from Town to Town; the second Row the Distance from London.

* A new turnpike road from Brent to Plymouth, p. 36.

† Another road to Penzance by Tavistock, p. 35, 287 miles.

To the L. of 12, is Hanworth Park, the seat of Lord Vere.—To the R. of 19, lies Runny-mead, rendered memorable by being the spot where Magna Charta was signed, between King John and the Barons, in the year 1255.—At 20, on the L. is Botleys, the seat of Sir Joseph Mawbey.—On the R. of 22, is Windsor Park, and Shrub's Hill, the late Duke of Cumberland's lodge, where his Royal Highness made a large sheet of water, on which is a fine barge, and a summer-house near it.—Near Basingstoke, is Basing, Duke of Bolton: it was burnt down in the civil wars. At Early Wallop is a new-built seat of the Earl of Portsmouth, and another seat at Hursborn.—At 51, to the L. is the seat of Mrs. Bramston. At Overton, on the R. the seat of Mrs. Dicker. Here is also a very large building, where are a number of silk-mills.—At Lavestock is a paper-mill, and a pleasant seat of Mr. Portal.—At Andover is the seat of J. Pollen, Esq. On the L. of Andover is Wherwell, the seat of Mr. Ironmonger.—Three miles beyond Salisbury, on the R. is Wilton, Earl of Pembroke.—On the R. a few miles on this side Shaftesbury, is Wardour Castle, Lord Arundel; and Fonthill, the seat of the late Alderman Beckford.—

Near Milbourn Port is the seat of Edward Walter, Esq.—At Sherborne is a seat of Lord Digby; and near it are the remains of Sherborne Castle; likewise the seat of Mr. Seymour.—Three miles to the R. of Crewkerne is Hinton St. George, Earl Powlett.—At Ford is Ford Abbey, Mr. Gwynn. Three miles beyond Axminster, on the L. is the seat of Sir J. Poole, Bart. and a little more to the L. that of Sir G. Yonge, Bart.—On the other side the river Tamar, on the L. Mount Edgcumbe, Lord Edgcumbe.—A few miles beyond Hale-river is Godolphin, Lord Godolphin.

DIRECTIONS when to pass over at AUST, (or the Old Passage) and the NEW PASSAGE between ENGLAND and WALES. See page 10, 11, 116, and above.

OBERVE, that the winds for passing are accounted but two sorts, viz. The winds that are southerly or westerly are called the winds below, and those northerly the winds above. When wind and tide go both one way, there is no passing, except at the going out of the tide at AUST, when, at three quarters ebb, you may pass: but when the wind is above, all passing must be on the flood, or coming in of the tide, and then you may have five hours good passing. When the wind is below, all passing must be on the ebb, or going out of the tide, and then you may have seven hours good passing. By finding the moon's age, you may, by the following table, know what hours to pass every day in the year.

For example, if the moon be one or sixteen days old, (which is the day of the change or full) the wind above, you may pass from two to seven; wind below, from seven to two.—If the moon be five or twenty days old, the wind above, you may pass from twelve minutes after five till twelve minutes after ten; wind below, from twelve minutes after ten to twelve minutes after five.

N. B. It is computed, that the difference in passing at Aust, and at the New Passage, varies but one hour, viz. when the tide is coming in, the wind above, then the New passes one hour before Aust. Tide going out, wind below, then Aust an hour before the New. So that, observing the difference, the same table serves for both passages.—The boats begin to pass and repass about half an hour before high water.
